YOUR GUIDE TO
the
NATIONAL REFERRAL MECHANISM (NRM)

OCTOBER 2023
What is 'Trafficking'?

Trafficking is also called 'modern slavery'. It involves the taking or controlling of people by force, threat or deceit to exploit them. It does not always involve movement of people through different countries, but it can. It is important to know that trafficking or exploitation can happen to anyone.

The National Referral Mechanism (NRM) is a tool in the UK to help identify people who may be victims of trafficking and then to give them support and help.

You might have been trafficked if any of these have happened to you:

- Working as a servant or nanny
- Sleeping onsite
- No access to healthcare
- No food
- Working in a farm or factory
- Documents taken
- Threats to report you to Home Office
Your guide to the NRM

1. How the NRM works:
   You disclose your experiences to your caseworker or someone you trust.

2. A referral is sent to the National Referral Mechanism (NRM) by a first responder:
   - The Police
   - The Council
   - The Salvation Army

3. There is no set time frame for a First Responder to make a referral.

4. But once the referral is made, a decision should be made within 5 working days.
First Decision: "Reasonable Grounds Decision"

This simply means whether the NRM believes you have been trafficked and whether they will explore your story further

Positive
- You will be given a "key-worker"

Negative
- If the decision is negative: the process will stop.
  - Potential to challenge if you inform your solicitor

Challenge

If positive the case progresses to Reflection & Recovery.

Food, Accommodation, Money

Rest + Recovery
- This is a period of 30 days where you will be provided with support.
  - Can be longer
final decision
"Conclusive grounds decision"

This is the last decision that will either be positive or negative.

NRM & your immigration case

Are linked but they are not the same

But your NRM decision can help

To find out more about your NRM decision and how it affects other immigration applications keep reading...
Your NRM decision is not the same as your asylum decision. But your NRM decision can help to strengthen an asylum or human rights claim. A positive Conclusive Grounds decision can help in 2 ways:

1. Discretionary Leave to Remain
   - If I get a positive Conclusive Grounds decision, am I a refugee?
   - No. But the Home Office may consider whether you can be granted a Residence Permit due to your trafficking experiences.

2. Help to Strengthen Your Other Case
   - My Immigration Case
     - A positive Conclusive Grounds decision can be very good evidence to support any other claims you might have, for example, an asylum or Human Rights based claim.
   - My NRM Case
     - You may be given a grant of Discretionary Leave to Remain which can be valid for up to 3 years. It is not a guarantee that you will automatically get, for example, refugee status.
